Enter the unique test kit barcode

If you have a home test kit, use the camera on your phone or computer to scan one of the identical barcodes on the plastic tube, plastic bag and return box.

Or you can manually enter the 11 character reference below the barcode.

If you're using a home test kit, you'll find the identical barcodes inside the home test kit, either attached to the plastic vial, biohazard bag and return box or loose for you to stick on yourself (please read instructions).

These are different from your pre-paid Royal Mail return package barcode on your box.

What's the test site's ID?

The test site ID will be either 3 or 4 characters.

If they're isolating after international travel, the test site is their government isolation hotel.

If they're still at the site and cannot find the test site ID, get them to ask a member of staff.

If the person taking the test has left the test site, staff should have told them to take a photo or write down the test site ID.

Enter the date and time of the coronavirus test

Select the date and time they'll take their coronavirus test. If they've already taken the coronavirus test, tell us the date and time they took it.

We need to know this so the lab can work out when the test is due to expire. Selecting the wrong date and time could mean them getting an incorrect result.

Do not take or post a test on a bank holiday

If they're posting the completed test kit at a Royal Mail priority postbox, they must do this no later than 1 hour before the last collection.
